FIFTY GERMAN SUBMARINES DISAPPEAR DURING UPRISING BY MEN IN UNDERSEA SERVICE

Ringleaders are Arrested and Sentenced to Death; Men Refuse to Longer Face Dangers of the Allied Patrol of the Seas.

KAISER FEARS TO VISIT BASE DURING FERMENT

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Rumors of a revolt by German sailors at Wilhelmshaven in protest against continuation of the submarine war are in circulation, according to a dispatch to the Express from Amsterdam.

It is reported that propagandists among the men incited sailors about to leave on submarine cruises to attack their officers and surrender their ships or seek an opportunity to sink them and get themselves interned in neutral harbors.

More than 50 submarines are said to have disappeared. Twenty-three of the ringleaders of the revolt are reported to have been arrested at Kiel and elsewhere, it is added.

The men behind the movement, the account states, are revolutionary sailors, who for some time past have been conducting propaganda with the object of stopping the submarine war because of the increased dangers. The recent resignation of Admiral von Holtzendorff as chief of the naval staff is declared to have been connected with the scandal.

Emperor William, it is added, has abandoned an intended visit to the fleet at Wilhelmshaven this week because of the ferment there.

DIAMOND SHOALS LIGHTSHIP SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

Famous Guide to Mariners, Thence for Song and Story, Sent to Bottom by Shell Fire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Diamond Shoals lightship, off Cape Hatteras, N. C., was shelled and sunk by a submarine late yesterday, the Navy Department was today informed. The crew, which took to the boats, have reached shore safely.

The submarine came within a half mile of shore, according to the brief report which reached the Navy Department.

The Diamond Shoals light station is one of the most famous guides to navigation in the world and has been the subject of many a story in verse and prose. Such vessels usually are manned by graybeards and are on such a type as to be utterly helpless in the face of an enemy attack.

The submarine probably was the one that sank the American tank steamer O. B. Jennings 100 miles off the Virginia coast several days ago.

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT. Aug. 7.—An American schooner arrived here today with 65 members of the crew of a Japanese freight steamship which had been torpedoed off the Nova Scotia coast.

HUNDRED FIFTY SUBS DESTROYED BY ALLIES, LLOYD GEORGE SAYS

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—General Foch, by his counter stroke, has driven the enemy back and although the danger was not over "he would be a sanguine man on the German general staff who would predict that Germany could obtain a military victory," said Premier Lloyd George today. The premier characterized General Foch's counter offensive as the most brilliant in the annals of the war. The Germans, declared the premier, had attempted their land offensive because the submarine offensive had failed.

Mr. Lloyd George stated that during the month of July 395,000 American troops had been brought over, 185,000 in British ships. Since August, 1914, including those already with the colors, Great Britain alone, said the premier, had raised for the army and navy 6,250,000 men, for the most part voluntarily. The Dominion had contributed 1,000,000 and India 1,250,000 men.

One hundred fifty German submarines have been destroyed, Mr. Lloyd George announced, more than half of them in the last year.

ROBERT A. FLOTO, CITED LAST WEEK FOR BRAVERY, IS LISTED AMONG UNACCOUNTED FOR

RAYMOND J. MALOY AND SIX OTHERS KILLED BY SHELL

Raymond J. Maloy, of Scottdale, member of the 110th Machine Gun Company, who was officially reported to have fallen in France on July 15, the opening day of the Germans' Marne offensive, was killed by a shell, along with six others of his command, according to a letter received yesterday by Lyell Buttermore of the Medical Detachment of the 110th. This, presumably, is what Sergeant McCormick refers to in the following paragraph of his letter:

"Well, Lyell, I buried seven from the Machine Gun company of our crowd. A high explosive shell hit on their dugout and every one was killed. And they were some sight. One was from Scottdale."

Maloy was the only machine gunner from Scottdale reported killed. McCormick makes no mention of any of the Medical Detachment boys under his command missing but refers to four—three from Connellsville and one from Uniontown—in the main drive who have not been accounted for.

His letter in full reads: "Friday evening and everything quiet so far as the small guns are concerned but the large boys are going all the time. We were busy three days ago. Our little dressing in France's field put me in mind of our old sick call in the guards, only a little more blood than had there. First in were gas patients, next gunners, next stragglers, and we had our hands full dodging the high explosives, and believe me, boy, they sure did crack about us; and talk about getting under cover. Well, we stayed there until morning and also the following night. I had about three hours sleep out of the 36. I worked. It was our first time under fire, and a big time to have it—just one year to the day from the time we donned the uniforms of Uncle Sam. And believe me, the Useless Sons of America did some fine work."

"Well, all week we had one and some days two men coming in with shrapnel wounds. Yesterday we had one gas case. We stay at the battalion dressing station and the litter bearers bring the men in. There are men picked from the companies to act as litter bearers."

"Well, Lyell, I buried seven from the Machine Gun company of our crowd. A high explosive bit on their dugout and every one was killed. And they were some sight. One was from Scottdale."

"We haven't heard a word from our fellows who were down in the main drive, but hope they are all alive. Three are from our home and one from Uniontown, but such is the life of a soldier."

"I have 14 men under me and Captain Shidder and Lieutenant Parson, U. S. R. They are Darr, Miller, Moser, Rogers, George McCormick, Minnis, Crowley, Martray, Burke, four old Third Regiment men and Broad, the Jew. Am out with my old bunch, the M-L-K (Companies M, L and K)."

"Just a minute, Lyell, there is an air battle on. These things come over in dozens, not one and two, and it doesn't cost us a cent either. There were 13 in one bunch, eight in another and 11 in another and still coming. I saw one German bring down two of our observation balloons on a Sunday. On Monday two new ones were up in their places. Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt was killed about 10 miles from where we are located. So you see we are in the fight with the rest of the boys. The bugler who led the platoon after the officers were killed was from Company C. That part you might get and you might not. Too much censor."

"Talk about prisoners. I saw over 200 in two bunches and one officer, and again five machine gunners with their German machine guns on their backs, and two other machine gunners and one Red Cross man, and again I saw three and one in the center was wounded and out of the three, two of them were not over 15 years of age—just kids. But, boy, if Fritz wants anything more of the Americans he can get it. He will find the U. S. boys ready."

"It just takes about three weeks for a letter to get across the ocean to the good old U. S. A., so when you find time write and I will try to answer. I think by that time I will be back resting in a little French hotel made by a drawing a typical French home, with the house, barn, chicken house and some other buildings pretty much all in one.) We have to kick out the cows and chickens to get in. Some life for a soldier. France is a fine country and the people are surely sticking together to win the war."

FOURTH NEAR FRONT HOT, SAYS MCCORMICK.

"For some time we have been in training behind the lines, so near that to be any nearer would be right in them," writes George B. McCormick of the 110th Medical Detachment, to his uncle, Charles B. McCormick of The Courier. "I suppose you spent a safe and sane Fourth. I spent about the hottest and noisiest Fourth in my experience. They gave us a chance to celebrate by allowing us up where the big guns roar. Talk about noise. I never heard anything like it. It certainly was interesting but to me it did not seem nearly so bad as we had been led to believe."

"Aeroplane battles are getting to be a common sight. We see two or three of them almost every day. Every day we see better exhibitions at flying than Deloid Thompson charged $2 for at the Uniontown spoolway. They are thrilling, especially when they start to twist and dive about, shooting at each other. The most interesting battle I have seen was when several observation balloons were shot to the ground by several aeroplanes."

"Since writing to you the last time I have seen the greater part of France, and the most of it on foot at that. We are on the move most of the time and as we usually start in Sunday we call it our carnival day. The more I see of France the more I am in love with it."

McCormick speaks of receiving copies of The Courier and of letters from home. "They certainly make a fellow feel good," he says.

PERCY SHEETZ MAKES NO MENTION OF LOSSES.

A letter received from Percy Sheetz dated July 17, the day after the battle, makes no mention of any one being killed or missing. The letter was written in a dug-out in the third line trench, where shells were flying freely. Sheetz mentioned that he was not able to write on July 16 because there was too much excitement going on. He says that he and Scott Lyelinger were together.

DARR TELLS OF SEEING LIEUTENANT DILWORTH

In a letter to Kirk Dilworth, James A. Darr of the 11th Medical Detachment, which was in the beginning of the battle of the Marne, tells of seeing Lieutenant Dilworth on the scene of action. Lieutenant Dilworth is supply officer for the first battalion of the 110th and is mounted.

"I saw your brother go past as fast as he could yesterday morning on a horse. Don't know where he was going, but he surely was in a hurry." Continuing he says: "I know you would enjoy this with me, Deacon, even though it is hell. I will try to write again as soon as I have time. You know we are busy and when we have nothing to do we crawl in somewhere and try to sleep."

Darr tells of the Medical Detachment boys dressing a number of wounded German prisoners.

LOSING MANT, WALTER ROGERS WRITES HOME.

Writing to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers of East Crawford avenue, of the big battle along the Marne, Walter Rogers, of the Medical Detachment of the 110th Regiment, stated that they were losing many men and that four of the Hospital corps were gone. He said I suppose you will read their names in the paper before this letter reaches you. "I would not give five cents for any man's life just now. Many Germans are passing our dressing stations, but they just can't do anything with the Americans," Rogers writes. The letter was dated July 17th.

"TOOTS" GRAFT BACK ON SCENE OF ACTION.

Charles B. Graft of Scottsdale, member of the 163rd Engineers, who was reported severely wounded in France, expected to leave the base hospital at Bordeaux and return to his command on July 18, according to a letter received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Graft of Scottsdale. "Toots," the letter, rather several of them, said was caught in barbed wire entanglements on July 3 and injured about the face and eyes. The sight was not affected, the news indicates. No further details are given. Graft speaks highly of the treatment at the hospital, where, he said, he was given every attention and received everything he wanted. Letters written in July arrived before those mailed the middle of June. Graft was formerly a civil engineer in the employ of the Republic Iron & Steel company and was located in that capacity in Uniontown. He is a nephew of Mrs. G. W. McCartney of Conneltsville and is well known in this city.

The floral tributes were numerous and unusually handsome. B. L. Berg, W. R. Kenney, C. W. McClellan, J. A. Armstrong, Joseph T. Johnston, William Robbins and J. J. Battimore served as pallbearers. The interment in Hill Grove cemetery was private.

HOTTEST DAY YET

West Penn Official Thermometer Registers 100 in Shade.

The "official" West Penn thermometer registered 100 degrees in the shade yesterday with a minimum of 78. This so far is the hottest day of the season. Last year's record of the same date showed the highest temperature to be 92 and the minimum 67.

The thermometer of L. L. West in Fairview avenue showed a temperature of 115 in the sun yesterday and 101 in the shade. This is the highest the mercury has been known to soar for quite a few years past. Last night was too hot for anyone to sleep and many people sat out on their front porches and lawns until a late hour to avoid the sweltering heat.

At 1:30 this afternoon a downtown thermometer registered 101 in the shade.

BUDDHISTS HOLD SPOT HOLY

Famous Pagoda, Built by Hermit, Has Long Been Visited by Throngs of Pious Pilgrims.

Sightseeing in Burma is apt to be one pagoda after another, and at that the tourist misses most of them. One that he usually does not see unless he is especially energetic, or has an insatiable taste for pagodas, is the Kyauk-tsto-pagoda, one of the most holy spots in Burma in the eyes of the Buddhist Burmese.

The Burmese say that the builder of this pagoda was a hermit, a theory which seems probable enough, for it is built on the top of a steep hill in a location which could appeal only to one of solitary inclination. Even the crest of the hill must have been too close to the world for the holy man, for he located his shrine on a huge boulder, which may have been steady enough in his day, but which now seems ready at any time to slip off into the valley several thousand feet below.

Assured by the Burmese guide that the rock has rested at this critical angle for many centuries, the visitor, already breathless from the reckless ascent of a Burmese hill, climbs a swaying bamboo ladder to view better the old pagoda. The great rock, with its shrine forming a tiny pointed cap, seems even more unsteady from here, but the guide feels no uneasiness. He is confident that somewhere below the pagoda is a lock of Buddha's hair, and this alone stays the boulder from its fall.

In the early spring pilgrims from all over Burma journey to this forsaken spot to place flowers on the rock and offer their prayers and gifts. Jewels and other offerings are tossed with an invocation to Buddha into the chasm below the rock. As they leave, they place lighted candles outside the shrine and, as they cross the plain in the evening they can still see tiny points of flame marking the sacred spot for other pilgrims who may follow them.—Chicago News.

Seeing Lions.

"To see the lions of the town" is a phrase in everyday use and of very ancient English origin. During six centuries, dating from the time of Edward III, one of the sights of London most eagerly sought out by people from the rural districts and travelers as well, was the lion menagerie of the tower.

When lions were substituted on the English shield for the leopards, the animals in the tower were changed to accord.

The three lions were named for three living kings, and the fortune of each king was supposed by many to be closely bound up with the fate of the tower animal which bore his name. The lions accordingly were treated with the greatest respect and consideration, and their keepers were always, according to the old records, "gentlemen."

After some time the lions were removed to the Zoological gardens at Regent park.

Price Advance

For over a year now we have succeeded in maintaining our old prices, principally by virtue of a big increase in sales which reduced our overhead cost. For our fiscal year ending July 1, 1918, our sales amounted to over a million dollars—an increase of 25 per cent over the preceding year. We had hoped to bridge the war period without a change in prices on

Vick's VapoRub

but we find that our economies do not keep pace with our rising costs. It is with sincere regret, therefore, that we are forced to announce an increase, effective August 1, which will make it necessary to retail VapoRub at

MUST DO OURS.This expressive sentence, from a letter written by Dewey Miller, member of the Medical Detachment, or Hospital Corps, of the 110th Regiment, following the first encounter with the Germans on the Marne, sums up briefly the conception our soldier boys have of their duty, and how it should be performed.They are in the great struggle for the firm establishment of human freedom among the people of the earth with a single object—to do their part and do it right. That purpose animated them when they took upon themselves the duties and obligations of soldiers. The accomplishment of it is now their unyielding determination. They well knew that the service required of them would involve hardships, dangers and loss of life.They cheerfully endured the monotony of a long training period in order that they might be made fit to play the game of war with an efficiency and skill that would outmatch that of an adversary that has been making war a business for 40 years. They impatiently, but in fine spirit, have waited the day when they would be called upon to make application of their training.That day came when they were called upon to help halt the Hun in his mad rush toward Paris. Then were their superior intelligence, training, skill, daring, resourcefulness and determination to win proved to such a degree that the "invincible" troops of the Kaiser were sent crushed and reefing to the rear when they expected to go forward with an irresistible smash.In meeting the first test of their capabilities and abilities as soldiers the boys of the 110th Regiment, and the whole 28th or Keystone Division, have shown how steadfastly they have adhered to their resolution to do their part and do it right. They have counted the cost and are willing to pay it. Some have paid it to the last full measure. The grief we share with those upon whom the burden will bear heavily will be sanctified and lightened by the knowledge that the whole world and all future generations will be debtor to those who have died gloriously in the most righteous cause for which a nation ever drew the sword.Pitiful and inadequate will be our bestowal of honor on the living, wounded and dead if we do not do our part and do it right by showing through our sacrifices, labors, gifts and efforts, that we appreciate that they are fighting, being maimed and are dying for us.MUST DESTROY THE FOUNTAIN HEAD.As the war progresses, and we gain a wider and more intimate knowledge of the designs and purposes of Germany, the more clearly does it appear that she has made it not only a war of conquest and a war against civilization, but also a war of atheism against Christianity. The depth of barbarism into which Ger-many has sunk in her conduct of the war proves this, statement beyond the possibility of successful denial, even if other proof were lacking.But in this as in all other revelations of Germany's evil designs we have confirmation from Germans themselves.Thus in a recent issue of the London Daily Mail we have the quoted words of a German officer, spoken a few months before the war started, which in the light of the war's developments reveal one of Germany's purposes in the war to be the destruction of both the old order of civilization and the Christian religion.The writer of the article met a Prussian espionage officer who very frankly admitted that Germany intended to invade Belgium "for the sake of getting Belgium" as a base from which to conduct a campaign against England. He spoke enthusiastically of the inventive developments Germany had made to carry terror into the hearts of non-combatants. Rebuked for advocating the use of such methods of warfare, and reminded that the world regarded Germany as a Christian nation, the Prussian impatiently interrupted his companion:"You talk of moral wrong," he said. "The new Germany does not recognize moral force, but only physical force. You speak of Christianity. It shows my friend, that you neither know Germany nor have read our great modern German writers. Christianity is outworn in Germany. We Germans despise it. It is an alien Eastern religion that has been grafted upon Europe.""We Germans," led by our Kaiser, are creating our own religion, the religion of physical and material force. You English think our Emperor blasphemous when he calls upon God so often and claims Him as an ally. But he is not your God. He is a German God we create for ourselves.""Can true Germany do away with the teachings of Christianity, its meekness and humanity. The only religion we recognize is that which is right and that the strong shall take from the weak. It is the Kaiser's religion; it is the religion of all our professors."When we recall that for the last 30 years or longer Germany's atheistic teachings have dominated the life of that country, we are not surprised that "all true Germans disdain the teachings of Christianity, its meekness and humanity," and that the present war has the substitution of the Kaiser's religion of might as its object. During the whole period Germany has been preparing for world conquest its teachers have been spreading through our own schools and colleges their atheistic doctrines, under a thin veneer of science, art and culture. We ought now to thank the God whom the Kaiser and his barbarian hordes have forgotten, that by their entrance into the war we have saved our national soul from the damnation of Kultur, the principles of which German professors spread abroad in our own and other countries as a part of the preparation made to enslave the world.Not only should the last vestige of this ungodly doctrine be stamped out but its fountain head in Germany must forever be destroyed.The Daily German LieBy Harvey O'Higgins, Associate Chairman, Committee on Public Information.In New York City, it is reported that the reason the government gives our soldiers, before sailing for France, the opportunity of signing their names to postcards informing their friends that they have arrived safely overseas, is to cover the sinking of American transports, which is said to happen frequently with great loss of life.The pro-German who invented that story betrays a touching disappointment. Our troops have recently been crossing the ocean at the rate of 100, 000 a week, without the loss of a single transport. Before going aboard ship the soldiers are allowed to write cards to friends and relatives announcing their safe arrival on the other side; the cards are held by the post office until the War Department receives a cable that the ship is in an English or French port, and then the cards are mailed. By that means the officers and men are saved the expense of cabling, and the cables are relieved of the burden of such messages, and the delay is avoided that would result if the cards were mailed in England or France.The northwestern states are hearing that "in Canada they use all the wheat and white bread they want, as there are no restrictions there on the use of wheat." This is one of the daily German lies that are being put out to hamper the Food Administration.The Canadian Food Board is enforcing in Canada the same measures of food control that are being enforced in this country. The Canadians have even gone further than we in licensing retail grocers, hotels, restaurants and cafes places, and in prescribing the quality and amount of food that may be served at a restaurant meal.The pro-German slanders against our troops in France have now reached Alaska. There, the people are being told that "American soldiers on leave from the trenches are permitted to contract 'morganatic marriages' with French girls, which are automatically dissolved upon the soldier's return to the front, so that on his next leave he is permitted to enter into another such contract with another girl. The War Department reports: "This is a thorough going farsehood. A great many fantastic stories come to us each day for authoritative denial, but there is scarcely any so totally lacking in foundation as this one concerning 'morganatic marriages'."The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. agents returning from France are continually bearing witness to the good moral condition among the troops in France. The surgeon-general's reports show that the hospital admission rate for venereal diseases

SIX OF THEM.

"My six boys are safe in bed," cheerfully the Kaiser said. "Safe and sound they sleep and snore, while the world is shuddering with terror. German angers guard their sleep, which is restful, calm and deep; smile upon their faces burst, as they dream of wienervurst, some men's sons. I have been told, too, in churches and sold, all their clothing wet with blood, plastered over with mud and mud. That would be a heavily six; I am thankful that my six sleep in peace and comfort here, dreaming of a kiss of beer. Eitel Fritz and Wilhelm Fred, each is in his truckle bed, each securely in his cot, guarded by our German God. I've been told that some men's sons, shattered by the foemen's guns, have been cast in trenches deep, there to find their endless sleep. Then I view my knaured boys, painless sleep each one enjoys; six fat pillows in a row, where do another prince grow? German sentiphim are right! Sleep, my sons, while others die! Sleep, while boys of country or blood groan and perish in the mud!
All the world is full of Germans, all the world is white with bones, all the world is wet with tears, rocked with anguish and with fears, and how thankful I should be, that my sons are here with me, while the globe is thrown into—Wilhelm Fred and Eitel Fritz!"

DR. JOHNSON'S PICTURE COW.

Got a silver in my hand, An' I bought a cow the land, An' got white around it, too, Then the first thing that I knew It was swelled up an' fat, Said: "There's no use fussin', Ma, I'll put on his coat an' hat, Doctor Johnson must see that."I was scared an' yelled, because One time when the doctor was At our house he made me small Somethin' funny, an' I felt Fast asleep, an' when I woke Seemed like I was goin' to choke, An' the folks who stood about Said I'd had my tonsils out.An' my throat felt awful sore An' I couldn't eat no more, An' I hurt me when I'd talk, An' they wouldn't let me walk, So when Pa said I must go To the doctor, I said, "No, I don't want to go tonight,
'Cause my hand will be all right."Pa said, "Take him, Ma," an' so I Jes knew I had to go, An' the doctor looked an' said It was very sore an' red, Much too sore to touch at all.
See that picture on the wall,
That one over yonder, Dad, With the old cow in the mud?"Oce I owned a cow like that, Jes as brown an' big an' fat An' one day I pulled her tail An' she kicked an' knocked the rail Full o' milk clean over me." Then I looked up there I see His old cow above the couch An' right then I holloed "ouch.""Budd," says he, "what's wrong with you?"
Did the old cow kick you, too?
An' he laughed, an' Ma said, "Son, Never mind, now it's all done, Pretty soon we came away An' my hand's all well today, But that's the first time that I know Picture cows could kick at you."Classified

FARMERS PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION FOR SOLDIER SONS

Special Train for Mt. Pleasant. Fails to Arrive.

MISUNDERSTANDING THE CAUSE

Two Twenty-Ours Included Among the Draftees Sent to Camp Wadsworth, Regular List Being Exchanged; Woman Sends Fourth Son

Special to The Courier. MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 7.—Farmers who brought their boys to the armory yesterday morning to report before leaving for Camp Wadsworth very willingly bawled the draftees to Conneltsville to get the train. Mount Pleasant had been assured of a special train but through some mistake none was supplied.

Only 12 men were sent by Board No. 6. This is the first time since the board has sent men that it has fallen short of the number required for this quota. Yesterday it was short only one man. By special permission from Washington, through Harrisburg, the board was allowed to use two 1918 draftees and then only by their request to go. Those who went yesterday were Albert Johnson, Greenwald, Clay Hill, Latrobe, Frank Maedel, Youngstown; Clarence E. Pershing, Lyndhurst; Andy Zitzert, Latrobe, R. D. J. Wade, Lehigh, Mount Pleasant, R. D. 1; Charles E. Fauschold, Mount Pleasant, R. D. 2; Paul Shabell, Latrobe, R. D. 3; George F. Lee, Latrobe, R. D. 1; William M. Stenler, Mannoch; Robert S. Gearhart, Mount Pleasant; and Frank Pawlowsky, Mount Pleasant. The last two are of the class of 1918.

Two men ordered to appear before the board, Howard Finkle and Lawrence Fisher, did not appear and if not brought in by the police in the next 48 hours will be turned in to the adjutant general as deserters. If brought to the armory inside that time, they will be sent on to camp. The ladies of the St. Joseph church provided a lunch for the draftees.

Gives Fourth Son.

Anthony Garstkeel was transferred from Board No. 17, Pittsburgh, and went with the local draftees from here yesterday. Mrs. Garstkeel, a widow of foreign birth, who can scarcely speak English and does not understand the language, has given her fourth son to her adopted country and seems very proud of the fact. One son, Mike Garstkeel, is with Company E, 110th Regiment in France. A son, Peter Garstkeel, who had served one enlistment in the Regular Army and who left a wife and one child along with his mother and who made his home with her, left September 23 with the draftees for Camp Lee, and Walter Garstkeel left with the draftees on April 4. This mother, although she is very small and frail, is so very proud of her boys that she is bearing up bravely under the strain and meets every person with a smile when discussing her sons.

War Baby Born.

Mrs. Eugene Sheppard of Smithfield street is the proud mother of a son born on Sunday evening. Mr. Sheppard was a member of Company E, 120th Regiment, and when the company left Camp Hancock he was transferred to a baking school being conducted for soldiers. His command is preparing for overseas service and he is making an effort to get a furlough.

Visiting Husband.

Mrs. Rose Patterson Howells is in Illinois at the camp with her husband, William Howells, of the National Army, who is in training there.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE DECIDING KISS."—A five part Bluebird attraction with Edith Roberts and Winifred Greenwood and other screen stars, appearing in splendid roles, is being shown today. Eleanor Hamilton, a lovelorn orphan girl, lives with her grandparents in a Cape Cod village. For her own good they accept the offer of a wealthy New York woman to adopt her. Beulah Page, the woman, desires a child only to relieve the monotony. She does not love the child and is disappointed at her tattered dress and tear-stained face. But when the little findling wins the love of Beulah's aristocratic friends she feels an abandonment of the spot light and rebuffs the child to a fashionable finishing school up the Hudson. After a year or two at the school in which Little Eleanor's Cape Cod blues is whittled away by prim tutors she is sent home; a radiant and cultured young woman. At once she is besieged by Peter Bolling, a young man whom Beulah has set apart for herself. Eleanor runs away and returns to her old home on Christmas day resigned to her sorrow at losing Peter. She learns the truth and they are happy. A selected comedy is included. Friday and Saturday Mabel Norman will be starred in "Jean of Plattsburg," a feature of unusual interest.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"JULES OF THE STRONG HEART."—Is a dramatization of William Merriam Rouse's story. It deals with the life of a lumberman in the Canadian woods, with a pretty love story of a lumberman's love for the boss' daughter all the way through and thrilling suspense and human interest. Tomorrow Sessue Hayakawa appears in "The Bravest Way," which deals with two young Japanese friends and shows how one of them, when the other is killed, sacrifices himself to the extent of marrying his dead friend's wife so that he can take care of her and her children.

MELODIES YOU WANT

They Are to be Found in "The Book of a Thousand Songs."

Here's just the kind of book that you will enjoy when the crowd gathers around the piano and a guest suggests, "Let's sing something."

"All right, you reply, 'what will it be?'"

"Some old southern song," replies the guest who was born in Georgia. "Bingo," suggests a college boy. "Let's sing something sentimental," says the girl whose sweetheart is in the navy.

"Something from one of the operas," is another suggestion.

You turn to The Book of a Thousand Songs, leaf over its pages and find a song to satisfy every taste. The native of Georgia is delighted to hear again "Ole Dan Tucker," or "Noddenus Johnson." The college boy sings his "Bingo," "Little Brown Jug" and other favorites.

The sentimental girl has a hundred or so to pick from, and the opera lover has almost as many more.

The Book of a Thousand Songs is first-aid to the entertainer, the pianist and the vocalist. This paper is distributing the book. Turn to a coupon printed in another column of this paper and learn the liberal terms.

A DENTISTS FORMULA

For the Garden Party

For the garden party and all the rest of summertime's engaging opportunities for living outdoors some clever hats and bags to match have been made. They all take cognizance of the fact that everywhere the lady goes her knitting-bag goes, too, and it is getting to be as much an affair of interest and importance as the hat it matches.

With the introduction of millinery brads and laces in its construction, we have summer knitting bags different from anything that has gone before. Knitting is becoming a sort of national pastime—the tired business woman and the woman of leisure—if there are such any more—declare it restful to the nerves. Anyway, it is essential and must be attended to.

The novel bag shown in the picture is merely a tube-shaped affair covered with ribbon, lace and a fancy millinery raid—a companion piece to the frilly oldsummer hat that inspired it. It is spacious and very chic—designed for the woman who is able to indulge in little fancies and not recommended for anyone else. There are plenty of pretty bags that are more simply made of materials that are seasonable all the year round. This particular bag suggests ways of using materials one may have on hand—for millinery is often discarded before it shows signs of wear.

It does not make much difference what hats and bags are made of so long as they are pretty and cleverly made. What is called the "valise" style has introduced calico, gingham, cotton crepe, percale and other cottons into the making of extra hats for midsummer. They might all be classed as garden hats—but like sport hats, they go everywhere.

And everywhere is just the place to find knitting bags—anyone who can use a needle can own one of these matched sets. Silk cords and tassels, narrow silk fringes and narrow lingerie laces—the old-fashioned ric-rac braid and hand-crocheted edges are all appropriately used with these smart, inexpensive, wartime novelties.

Corsets Foundation of Good Dressing

The problems of the makers of corsets are many and difficult, but the corsets of today are marvels of skillful designing. In the first place those who create corset styles must understand thoroughly the various types of figures and they must undertake to make each one of them shapely without the sacrifice of comfort. This is not at all easy; for the top-slender woman must be given pretty curves and the fat woman must have hers smoothed out. Besides, women demand corsets that are light in weight and have few bones or steels. Fashion decrees that women shall be so carefully corseted that they look uncorseted when they are dressed. The contour of the figure must conform to beautiful lines.

The next corsets are made of firm but very flexible materials and with the fewest possible number of bones. They are nearly all very low in the bust and give perfect freedom to the diaphragm. There are equally good models in front and in back-laced styles so that each woman must determine for herself which is best suited to her figure.

The corset is the foundation of successful dressing and should be fitted with the greatest care. We have all met women who achieve the best style in the simplest frocks and suits. It is all a matter of beautifully balanced lines and one must begin at the beginning to possess them, and the beginning is the corset that fits and shapes the figure. All good dressmakers understand this.

A front-laced and a back-laced corset are shown here. At the left the corset designed for a slender figure is a trifle higher in the front and considerably higher in the back than the model designed for a fuller figure which is shown at the right. Corsets for stout women are very low in the bust; for it is their province to lengthen and straighten lines that are too much curved. When the corset has been properly fitted and the contour of the figure made as nearly correct as the corset can make it the way of the dressmaker is easy; all she has to do is to preserve the lines which result from good corseting.

Length of Blouses.

It is evident that all blouses that bear the stamp of fashion will extend halfway between the waist and knees. These blouses are often sleeveless when worn under coats. They are built of colored chiffon that does not match the gown, or of linen, albatross, silk and woolen jersey and corded silks. Every effort is being made to put out of fashion the blouse that ends at the waistline and cuts off the figure.

Feats at Rest.

"Do you remember the drug store clerk who got you what you wanted and then asked: 'And now what else, with the succarine stress on the 'now,' when he knew there wasn't anything else?'"

FOURTEEN YEARS OF
BIG LEAGUE SERVICE

"Red" Ames Still Good Enough to Hold His Meal Ticket.

Player Who Won Fame as Pitcher for New York Giants Is Dependent Upon to Do His Share of Work for St. Louis Cardinals.

With fourteen years of major league pitching behind him, old Leon ("Red") Ames, who won most of his fame as a pitcher for the Giants, is still good enough to hold a meal ticket in the big show.

As a member of the St. Louis Cardinals, where he was sent in a trade in 1915, Ames is depended upon to do a share of the pitching, and with good support, he generally gives all comers a battle.

Last season, when the Cards began to look up and play some real baseball for Miller Huggins, Ames worked in a total of 43 games and won 15.
He was credited with ten losses.

This season the red-headed finger showed surprisingly good early season form, and in a game at Pittsburgh, May 2, he held the Pirates to two hits, both of which were registered against him in the first inning and netted Bezdek's boys the lone run that won the game. That was something of a heart-breaker for a veteran like Ames—to pitch a two-hit game and lose it.

One of the secrets of Ames' success as a pitcher lies in the fact that he knows how to pitch. He doesn't cut loose too early in the season, and he saves his arm whenever he can. Pitching with one's noodle as well as with the arm is a secret that Ames learned long ago.

Leon Ames.

Ames broke into the big show at the tag end of the 1903 season, but did not really get his first tryout until the next season, when he took part in 10 games. The next year he was ready for all the work McGraw could give him and succeeded in winning 22 games and losing but eight.
That was his biggest winning year, although he always worked in many games and for a number of years ranked as the best pitcher in either league to go in and finish a game that was in danger.

PITCHER ED KLEPFER
IS NOW "OVER THERE"

Ed Klepfer, on the reserve list of the Cleveland club, isn't over here any longer. He's "over there" and Ed is "over there" to fight. He is one of two Cleveland Indians who recently arrived in France with a contingent of Jackie Sam's khaki wearers. He is now Sergeant Klepfer, if you please.
With Ed is Joe Harris, another former Cleveland player and some slugger. Joe had a terrific wallop in his out while with the Indians and hopes to use it in helping knock out the Germans. In a recent letter to Joe Wood, a former teammate, Sergeant Klepfer announces his safe arrival in France after dodging G-bombs en route. He will pitch some games for the soldiers back of the lines. Klepfer and Harris are two of nine players lost by the Cleveland club in the National army draft and by enlistments.

Facts to Continue Playing.

Tony Faeta, Milwaukee pitcher, has gone into the army school for training mechanics near St. Paul and on visits of the Milwaukee team to St. Paul or Minneapolis he will get furloughs and pitch for the Brewers until he completes his course and is sent abroad.

The bank and its trained bankers are the guardians of your financial existence and welfare, aiming at all times toward security. Can you imagine the man who through sick-ness or misfortune, is compelled to seek financial relief. In health he has fallen prey to one of the many disposers of valueless stocks or bonds. When misfortune comes he seeks aids of his home bank, only to learn too late that he has been victimized by his earnings whereas a few minutes' consultation with the banker would have made him secure for all time to come had he sought and accepted their advice.

MORAL:—The day of the gold brick will never pass; the strength of the bank will never fail.

Remember the Operator—The "Soldier" of the Switchboard

THE operator is human; she makes mistakes, though not frequently. She has womanly feelings and qualities and is affected by kind or sharp words as any one of us. She has swung a tremendous war-made telephone traffic in a way to put many who boast of their war-time activities to blush—and she is still at it, holding down the job like a "man" or "woman," as you please.

This young woman, with her nimble fingers and keen mind, is weaving the talk threads so necessary in our present great National task; she is to be regarded as human and not as a machine.

The stress of these rush days, the wear and tear and grind, sometimes tell on our nerves and are reflected in our manner as we telephone. It should not be, for these are times, surely when the "voice with a smile wins."

Let us all remember the telephone operator and the part she is playing, and be gentle and courteous in our relations with her.

CO-OPERATION OF COAL-COKE OPERATORS SOUGHT TO KEEP MINE WORKERS OUT OF DRAFT

Desire of Government is That They Remain on the Job.

FULL INFORMATION ASKED

In Order That Local Boards May Learn the Need of Labor in Mines.

MEN DO NOT UNDERSTAND

The Purpose of Being Placed in Deferred Classifications; Think It a Reflection on Their Patriotism and Have Been Enlisting Voluntarily.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Intimate knowledge of the relation between coal production and labor supply, and accurate information of the labor requirements of every mine in the country, are of the utmost importance in the opinion of the Provost Marshal General Crowder's office, to those who are entrusted with the administration of the selective draft law, and no effort should be spared by the coal operators to see that all local and district boards having jurisdiction over coal fields are kept informed on these matters.

Co-operation on the part of the coal operators with General Crowder, it is urged, is absolutely necessary if the selective draft law is to be administered with respect to miners so that they will be classified according to their importance to industry rather than their fitness for military service.

These facts were impressed upon a representative of the National Coal Association today by one of the aides of General Crowder in discussing the necessity for impressing upon the miners the attitude of the War Department towards men within the draft ages who are getting out of the coal without which America would be powerless within the present crisis.

The importance of immediate action along this line was emphasized by a reference to the undoubted intention of the government to extend the age limits of those who will be called upon to register for military service. Those age limits will be fixed by Congress upon the recommendation of the Secretary of War. Attention was called to the fact, however, that whatever those limits may be, thousands of miners will be affected by the new law, and the apprehension was expressed that the men who would be required to register would feel, as many of their fellow workers mistakenly have felt, that the government is calling them from the mines to the front, unless they are made clearly to understand that their country needs them where they are. Greater weight, it is believed, will be given by the men to a statement of the government than it would receive if it came from any other source, and it is for this reason employers are urged to withhold from local and district boards no fact that would enable those officials to speak intelligently on the subject of the need of labor in the mines.

Men of draft age employed in the coal mines will best serve their country by remaining where their experience and skill will assist in maintaining and increasing the production of the fuel with which the munitions and supplies are manufactured, and by which the locomotives and ships are propelled. It is not only the right of such men to continue in their present employment, but it is their patriotic duty to remain at their posts, and local and district boards have been instructed by General Crowder to impress this fact upon the men employed in the mines who come before them for registration.

"It is just as much the duty of such a man to remain at his post in acceptance of the action of his local or district board in placing him in a deferred class, as it is for a man in uniform to obey the orders of his commanding officer," said General Crowder's aide.

The deferred classes incorporated in the selective draft law, it was explained with emphasis, were not intended to protect slackers, but to enable the government to prosecute the war with the greatest possible efficiency, by using every man where he will be of the greatest use to the nation in the present emergency.

Great difficulty, it was said, has been experienced in impressing these facts upon the miners who, through their intense and militant patriotism, have mistakenly insisted upon entering the military service in spite of the fact that they have been urged to stay in the mines. Several instances were referred to in which men who had been placed by the local and district boards in deferred classes because they were employed in mines, had left their positions and returned to the boards with the demand that they be registered for immediate service. This attitude on the part of the miners has been to general ac to engage the serious consideration of General Crowder. He is convinced that the defections from the mines by men of draft age are attributable to intense patriotism, which has resulted in extensive voluntary enlistments and refusals to accept deferred classifications in the draft, and in the acceptance of the pecuniary and other inducements offered by the other war industries.

Labor representatives expressed the belief that the failure of the government to exempt miners from the draft, had inspired the conviction that they were wanted in the military instead of the industrial service of the government. The instructions sent to the local and district boards by General Crowder were for the purpose of correcting this impression.

Inquiries have been addressed by General Crowder to the draft boards of West Virginia to ascertain if the attitude of the miners in that territory is similar to that of the men in the Pennsylvania fields.

Coal operators throughout the country are urged by General Crowder to assist by every means in their power in impressing upon the government the true attitude of the government. Unqualified endorsement also was given by General Crowder to the filing by coal operators with the local or district boards of affidavits either in support of claims for deferred classification, or on their own initiative in those cases in which the registrants are properly entitled to such classification but fail or refuse to claim it.

General Crowder approves of a plan that has been suggested by a representative of the United States Fuel Administration to identify by some insignia those miners subject to draft who have remained at their posts in the mines in deference to the wishes of the government, instead of insisting upon their right to serve their country in uniform. The immediate object of such a practice it is understood will be urged by General Crowder as a means of impressing upon the miners the value the government places upon their services in the conduct of the war as the producers of coal.

In the questionnaire prepared for the use of men who registered June 5, 1918, the first question under the heading "Industrial Occupation" is as follows:

"Are you engaged in an industrial enterprise necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, or to the effective operation of the military forces, or to the maintenance of the national interest during the emergency?"

If the registrant answers "No" to that question, in spite of the fact that he might truthfully answer "Yes," he is not expected to answer the remaining questions or that series. It is in such a case as this that General Crowder depends upon the co-operation of the coal operators to induce the registrant to remain in the mines.

For the purpose of accomplishing this the coal operators, besides putting clearly before their employees the expressed desire of the government that such men remain in the mines, are expected to prepare and file affidavits with the local or district boards giving the information called for by the questions on pages 11 and 12 of the questionnaire.

Questionnaires can be obtained on application from any local or district board.

The facts on which local and district boards are expected to place registrants in deferred classes are as follows:

Class 2(d) Skilled industrial labor in necessary industrial enterprises. Class 3(k) Necessary highly specialized technical or mechanical expert of a necessary industrial enterprise. (1) A necessary assistant or associate manager of a necessary industrial enterprise.

Class 4(d) A necessary sole manager, controlling, or directing head of a necessary industrial enterprise.

MINERS IN DEFERRED CLASSES MUST STAY ON THE JOB.

According to the decision of the local board for Raleigh county, W. Va., mine workers who are given deferred classification lose such classification the moment they leave the service of the company by which they are employed. This decision was made in the case of a mine torman who had been granted deferred industrial classification and was promptly inducted into the military service when he left the employ of the company with which he was engaged at the time his case was brought before the local board.

In explaining its action the local board made the following statement: "Where a party subject to military service is granted deferred classification on industrial grounds, and leaves the employment of the party with whom he was employed at the time he was employed at the time he was given deferred classification, he thus waives his deferred classification and in all cases becomes immediately subject to be drafted into the army when his number is reached.

"The erroneous impression seems to have gotten out that a party given deferred classification may leave his employer and obtain employment at another mine in the same capacity and remain in the deferred class, but this is not true—since the deferred classification is granted solely upon the application of the immediate employer at the time deferred classification is granted.

"All men subject to military duty who do not work steadily and industriously, are liable at any time to reclassification and immediate induction into the military service, regardless of what class they may be in."

The Edison Tone Test is a Proof—Not an Argument

It's positive proof of our claim that Thomas A. Edison has perfected an instrument which Creates the human voice with such fidelity that no one can distinguish between the singer and the instrument. Yes, it sounds incredible. But before audiences totaling more than 2,000,000 people, great artists—Metropolitan stars—have sung in direct comparison with the New Edison and defied the audience to detect any difference. With the lights lowered to hide the singer's lips, not one listener has been able to say when the artist ceased and the instrument continued alone.

WARNING—Edison Re-Creations should not be played and cannot be played properly on any other instrument. If they could be, the manufacturers who seek to profit by Mr. Edison's research work would be able to make tone test comparisons, such as Edison has made with the New Edison before two million music lovers.
